

A central activity of Globus Toolkit developers is to refine current capabilities and develop new functionality based on input from the community. The following diagram illustrates a key process through which community members can participate in Globus development. For more information on Globus development, please visit <http://dev.globus.org> and <http://www.globus.org/roadmap/>

Process overview for proposing Globus Toolkit development plans

